

Protecting Yourself from COVID-19 Fraud Schemes

Recommendations from the Department of Justice

The Department of Justice recommends that Americans take the following precautionary measures to protect themselves from known and emerging frauds related to COVID-19:

- 1 Independently verify the identity of any company, charity, or individual that contacts you regarding COVID-19.
- 2 Check the websites and email addresses offering information, products, or services related to COVID-19. Be aware that scammers often employ addresses that differ only slightly from those belonging to the entities they are impersonating. For example, they might use “cdc.com” or “cdc.org” instead of “cdc.gov.”
- 3 Be wary of unsolicited emails offering information, supplies, or treatment for COVID-19 or requesting your personal information for medical purposes. Legitimate health authorities will not contact the public in this manner.
- 4 Do not click on links or open email attachments from unknown or unverified sources. Doing so could download a virus onto your computer or device.
- 5 Ignore offers for a COVID-19 vaccine, cure, or treatment. Remember, if a vaccine becomes available, you will not hear about it for the first time through an email solicitation, online ad, or unsolicited sales pitch.
- 6 Check online reviews of any company offering COVID-19 products or supplies. Avoid companies whose customers have complained about not receiving items.
- 7 Research any charities or crowdfunding sites soliciting donations in connection with COVID-19 before giving any donation. Remember, an organization may not be legitimate even if it uses words like “CDC” or “government” in its name or has reputable looking seals or logos on its materials. For online resources on donating wisely, visit the Federal Trade Commission \(FTC\) website. Be wary of any business, charity, or individual requesting payments or donations in cash, by wire transfer, gift card or through the mail.
- 8 Be cautious of “investment opportunities” tied to COVID-19, especially those based on claims that a small company’s products or services can help stop the virus. If you decide to invest, carefully research the investment beforehand.
